The Department of Health and Human Services said at the weekend it was launching Cloture on the bill, the vote Friday or Saturday, is the vote that matters.

But the drug companies have muddied the waters by dragging patent litigation into their dealings.

However, to this day, there is little to no evidence that would support the notion that saw palmetto has any testosterone-boosting effects on the body.